

Localising humanitarian aid: building resilient networks, systems, organisations and people

World Humanitarian Summit

24 May 13:00-14:30, Rumeli Hall 2 (100 - Roundtable), Lütfi Kırdar Convention and Exhibition Center (LKCC) building

How can we bridge the gap between formal international structures and national actors, and implement global and local level planning at the community level?

How can we develop mechanisms that strengthen capacities of national actors to support localisation?

This event aims to answer these questions and explore new innovations that support the localisation of humanitarian response. It will look at the themes of networked response, building resilience at the local level through decentralised systems, and strengthening national-level capacities to drive local-level action.

Mr. Nigel Fisher (chair)

Dr. Garry Conille, Under Secretary General, Programmes and Operations, IFRC

Dr. Helen Young, Feinstein International Center at Tufts University and Building Resilience in Chad and Sudan, BRACED

Dr. Kevin Watkins, Director, Overseas Development Institute

Mr. Takeshi Komino, Secretary General, ADRRN

@bebraced for live updates
from the event

